The Design Process:
The final version looks nothing like the initial design as the more options I explored the more I realised which design would look better or be better suited for the visualisation.

Design Choices:

1. Colour coding of the bar graph: To analyse the trend of when a nation may have started developing economically or technologically or when they may have started taking measures of cutting down consumption.
2. Smoothening of the line graph
3. Scatter plot slider: Inspired by Mike Rostock’s example
