Well... Here It Is!

Cullen Booth
How did I prepare for this?
All (Read: Most) Of The Things

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Now</th>
<th>This</th>
<th>Is</th>
<th>A</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Table</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
For Real Izys This Time

Breakdown of the Day

- Chasing Squirrels Around Campus: 42%
- Sleeping: 29%
- Playing Halo: 9%
- Staring Wistfully Into the Distance: 20%
My bad, that gets old.
Catawba Falls, Ashville NC

Where I would like to be right now.
Why is this PowerPoint so Bad?

TIME SPENT ON PROJECT

- Actually Working: 49%
- Being Distracted by Gabi and Blair: 12%
- Staring off into the distance: 18%
- Jammin Out: 21%
Expectations in the Beginning of the Semester

- Excel: I will be able to use Excel at work and to better organize team events.
- Access: This is going to be difficult because every friend who went through K201 hated it, so we’ll see how this works out.
- Word: I’ve written plenty of essays, what more would I need?
- PP: Same thing as word here all is well with the world.
- Dreamweaver: This is going to be the hardest thing I’ve done, and I’ve had a pissed off weights coach own me for 4 hours.
Mid-Semester Expectations

- Excel - Well, glad that’s over.
- Access - You really can’t win them all but it can’t get much worse can it?
- Word & PP - Okay so this is about as simple as I thought it would be.
- Dreamweaver - Still incredibly terrifying and we haven’t even gotten here yet.
What Did I Learn?

Before

Excel: That’s the green one I fill out for tournaments right?

Access: Access to what?

Word&PP: I know this stuff why am I taking a class on it in college?

Dreamweaver: Like... Sandman?

After

Excel: Almost Mastery (of what we learned)

Access: Actually useful now. Boss says use it, I’ll say “well.. Sure, why not?”

Word&PP: Oh, okay bet this is actually great. Mastery.

Dreamweaver: Like... Sandman on the internet?