When Start Microsoft Visual Studio .Net for First Time

The very first time you start Microsoft Studio on your computer you may get screen similar to this one on the left. Simply go to bottom and click on “Not now, Maybe later”

This is the next screen, one to the right. Here you can choose your color theme and development settings. Both of these may be changed later as well once Studio is up and running. Click on the down arrow next to General.

After you click on the down arrow, you get these choices. Proceed to click on what software you want to have opened by default. Then click on “Start Visual Studio” on the bottom.

If may take several minutes, but it will eventually open. You can now use the rest of the Microsoft Visual Studio Handout to finish.
