Foundation Paper

I choose technoethics for my topics. It is the basic moral concept to deal with issues such as military weapons and environmental pollution that are emerging due to technology developing.

The article I found is talking about how US kills Iran general Qassem Suleimani with drone. The topic was interesting to me because this event indicates well the side effect of technology developing. This topic also suggests ethical issues as technology advances. If drone technology is developed and commercialized in the future, crimes using the technology will surge in our daily lives. Even though it will also bring many advantages to us, we should consider about those following ethics problems. In my opinion, government should regulate the technology that can be used maliciously. The development of technology is inevitable and natural, but I think it is also important that we have to prevent and prepare for the side effects of the technology development.
